Airport Function Centre
85 Bourke Road, Alexandria, New South Wales

The interests of the dental industry and the dental profession are shared, so when dentists and allied professionals face a tough time this flows through to the dental industry. The past few years have been difficult and the question that many are asking is are things going to improve?

This briefing is designed to provide the dental industry with the knowledge to plan for the growth and sustainability of their business. This is a must-attend event for everybody with an interest in the major issues facing the dental profession.

This breakfast briefing is important to your business as it outlines —

- A review of the challenges facing the dental profession in the year ahead.
- The impacts of changes to government funding of dental care.
- An analysis of the dental workforce and the prospects for new graduates.
- The dental profession's perspective on the current scope of practice debate.

The presenter is Dr Matthew Fisher, Chief Executive Officer of the Australian Dental Association (ADA) branch in New South Wales. His participation reflects the increasingly cooperative relationship that exists between the ADA and the Australian Dental Industry Association (ADIA), the peak business organisation representing suppliers of quality dental products.

Who should attend this breakfast briefing —

- Employees across the dental industry wishing to understand the profession.
- Stakeholders from across the healthcare sector with an interest in dentistry.

The cost includes a cooked breakfast with tea, coffee and fruit juice. Please advise ADIA prior to the event of any special dietary requirements.
